

THE STORY OF IRELAND

Statues with a Story: Activity 1

People are a very important part of any story and many people important people have contributed to Ireland's Story. Research someone who has made a contribution to the history of your own area.

Detective Diarmuid has some advice to help you get started ...

“Look for clues in the names of the streets or buildings in your local area. Are any of them named after someone? Is there a local park named after someone? These are usually good places to start ”

You might prefer to choose someone who is not very well known. They may even be still living. If this is so then it would be a great opportunity to write to them and ask them some good questions. When you have chosen the person you want to research, you will need to think about why you have chosen them and what effect you think that their contribution has made. Write a short description of the person you have chosen and the reasons you selected them in the boxes below.
